

Lecture from the President

In February 2016, President, Marvin J. Malecha, FAIA, DPACSA gave a special lecture to the NewSchool community as part of the NewSchool Lecture Series.

“It is my intention to connect my teaching and practice as a life experience toward discovering and then testing my creative spirit. Foundational ideas regarding the nature of design thought underlie my work but it is through the work that the iterative nature of a life in design is explored. To illustrate this journey, projects will be shared that represent the breadth of scale of a creative search from jewelry to project master plans. It is this journey that defines my life as an educator, administrator and architect.”—
